COLD TEMPS ALLOW SUGAR BOWL TO BEGIN SNOWMAKING OPERATIONS

Cold temperatures coupled with a winter-weather forecast created ideal snowmaking conditions at Sugar Bowl Resort Tuesday evening. Jamie Fawcett, Snowmaking and Grooming Manager for the resort, cited ideal "wet bulb" temperatures, consisting of an ideal mix of relative humidity and ambient temperatures, ultimately allowing the system to convert 1,000 gallons of water per minute to snow. "We started the system for the first time Tuesday evening at 5:30pm and ran 12 guns throughout the night and will run until about 9am this morning." Fawcett also indicated that a promising weather forecast, including snow showers, should give the snowmakers optimal conditions to continue making snow through the weekend. Sugar Bowl's snowmaking system covers 375 acres or about 25 % of the resort.
